Expertise: effective school district leadership; superintendent hiring; non-traditional superintendents

Dr. Tim Quinn
Managing Director, Alumni Services
The Broad Superintendents Academy

Dr. Tim Quinn is a nationally acclaimed expert on traditional and nontraditional school superintendents, superintendent searches and hiring and effective school district leadership. Quinn is managing director of alumni services for The Broad Superintendents Academy, a rigorous, 10-month executive management training program designed to prepare experienced leaders from business, education, military, government and nonprofit sectors with the critical skills needed to lead the nation's largest urban school districts. Under his leadership, more than 70 graduates of the Broad Academy, both traditional and nontraditional, are currently leading school districts as superintendents or central office executives nationwide, and superintendents trained by the Broad Academy are outperforming comparison groups in raising student achievement. Quinn also founded the Michigan Leadership Institute in 1997 to facilitate leadership development, research, and placement of outstanding leaders in K-12 public school systems. Quinn's career spans teaching and administration at all levels of public education. He led the Green Bay Public Schools as superintendent for six years and was deputy state superintendent of instruction for Wisconsin. He was also chief academic officer and president of Northwestern Michigan College in Traverse City, Mich. At the University of Michigan, Quinn served as director of academic outreach and as chief executive officer of Michigan's first virtual college, a prototype for the expanded Michigan Virtual University. Quinn holds a doctorate in educational leadership from the University of Michigan, and he has been honored for outstanding leadership in the field of education with honorary doctoral degrees from Eastern Michigan, Central Michigan, and Grand Valley State Universities. He has published numerous articles and lectured across the nation on topics including leadership, effective governance, and business and education partnerships.
